Alpha Gamma Delta Selects 2019-20 Leadership Consultants to Join International Headquarters Staff

[Indianapolis] March 8, 2019—Alpha Gamma Delta International Fraternity has selected 12 women for their 2019–2020 Leadership Consultant Team. Leadership Consultants for the Fraternity travel for nine months throughout the United States and Canada to support the efforts of Alpha Gamma Delta collegiate chapters and the extension of the Fraternity to additional colleges and universities.

Joining the Leadership Consultant Team for the first year are Abby Gindorff, Beta Beta–North Dakota State University; Skye Marché Johnson, Delta Iota–California State University, Chico; Megan McNeal, Theta Delta–University of North Georgia; Rosie Nguyen, Epsilon Nu–University of Central Oklahoma; Shea Okamoto, Delta Omicron–University of Nevada, Las Vegas; LJ Perry, Gamma Zeta–University of Memphis; Kendra Ramsey, Iota–University of Washington; Oakleigh White, Gamma Sigma–Troy University; Lacy Wood, Epsilon Upsilon–Tarleton State University; and Shannon Zogran, Beta Epsilon–Carroll University.

Haley Casola, Gamma Tau–University of West Georgia, and Maggie Hackman, Epsilon–University of Kentucky, will return as Second Year Leadership Consultants.

The highly competitive selection process included a weekend of interviews and meetings with members of International Headquarters staff. The team will receive extensive training to enable their support of collegiate chapters and serve as mobile educators and brand ambassadors.

“We are confident these women will make a difference in our chapters’ success and lives of our members,” said Samantha Lapid, Leadership Development Manager for Alpha Gamma Delta. “We are excited to welcome them to our staff.”
